Ultimatum Given Peoria Pastor Was Closely

BUILDS UP THE BANKRUPT CHURCH

Was President Of Two Banks--Was Charged With Horrid Crime, Showing Moral Degredation
Of Character.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Peoria, Ill., Feb. 7.—The meagre details of the circumstances leading up to the death and disgrace of George H. Simmons, the Baptist minister, politician, bank president and commercial man, yesterday, are showing more fully today the horror of the situation that confronted him and caused him to take his own life. Confronted by the mandate to either leave the city, be a disgraced man or commit suicide, Dr. Simmons committed suicide. Leaving his wife with a whistle on his lips he took his own life, driven to it by the fearful mandate: Leave the city or suicide.

The Order
The mandate was delivered to Dr. Simmons by a newspaper editor Monday afternoon upon receipt from the state's attorney of a report that disclosed the popular divine in his true character, and at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning his body was found in bed by his wife. Near by was a vial which had contained cyanide of potassium.

As a result of this new situation, and having recovered from the effects of the Douglas scandal, depositors in the two banks of which Dr. Simmons was president clamored at the doors of the institutions for their money and received it from but one, the Interstate Trust and Savings. The other bank, the People's Savings, did not open, and E. Lewis Kelly, Simmons' partner in the venture, and the only other person conversant with the bank's affairs, is almost on the verge of nervous prostration.

Says Bank Is Solvent.
The condition of Kelly serves to complicate what is the most tangled feature of the Simmons affair. A rumor was in circulation that the People's bank had on hand but $1,500 when the time came for it to open its doors, and the only intelligible reply made by Kelly to questions regarding the bank's condition was: "Bank's solvent."

At the Interstate bank a run continued during banking hours and depositors obtained their money without difficulty. It is said Simmons merely was a "hire" president of the institution, hired on account of his immense popularity, so that his disgrace and consequent suicide may not affect the bank's condition. The $200,000 in the People's bank, belonging mostly to people of the poorer class, is said to be affected by the scandal.

Investigation has developed the fact that Dr. Simmons for years has been afflicted with a peculiar species of insanity, which has caused him to be driven from at least two cities in the United States; and which finally brought about his self-inflicted death. On this account he had been estranged from his wife, who, nevertheless, was loyal to him in public during the eight years they had been married.

The written statement left by Dr. Simmons is pregnant with meaning to those who are acquainted with the investigation recently completed by the state's attorney. In it he was careful to exculpate his business associates from any fault.

Plaintive Message.
He hinted, however, at "failure of persons to make good financial promises," that serves but to add to the mystery that hangs over the affairs of his bank. The statement follows in full:

"Should this be my last night on earth there are some things I feel I must say. My business associates must not be held responsible for my failure to carry out my plans. Others failed me in not making good financial promises, and I was compelled to disappoint my associates. This is of no local reference. Also no blame must be attached to ex-Governor Yates or his associates. He simply gave me an appointment, which my opponents and my enemies have prevented me from fulfilling. I regret most keenly the disappointment and suffering I have brought to those who loved and still love and trust me. Believe me when I say I have tried earnestly to have the present other than it is. But a short time and all would have been different. May the merciful and mild deal gently with those whom I can help no more. I have preached the truth, but my ability and conditions beyond my control have prevented my realizing it. I believe it and trust it, yet the time fails me should I attempt to write personal messages. Undying love is my thought for all."

Politics His Undoing.
While the sensational disclosures regarding Dr. Simmons and his conduct could not have been stayed off long, the exposure is believed to have been hastened by his entrance into politics. His high moral attitude set certain people to work, and the stories commenced circulating in a vague manner. Such momentum did these indefinite stories secure that investigation and disclosure naturally followed.

During the course luncheon at the National hotel Jan. 24 former Governor Yates offered Dr. Simmons the management of his campaign in Peoria county and urged that he accept it. Dr. Simmons pleaded for time. He stated he was anxious to interview some of his friends and see what they thought of it. He pondered over the matter for several days, and against the advice of his closest friends decided to accept. In this letter he stated that he accepted the campaign was to be conducted on the "highest principles of honor and honesty."

In Peoria his achievements have partaken of the marvelous. He found the First Baptist church on the verge of bankruptcy, depleted in membership, disheartened almost to the verge of despair. He built up the membership to the largest in the city and in less than five years triumphantly paid off the church debt of $20,000.

He conducted a series of religious meetings at the Coliseum, which were attended by throngs numbering 10,000 persons, as many more being turned away at each meeting.

POISON IS USED BY A ROBBER
Thief Puts Chloral in Beverage Before Inviting Victims to Drink.

New York, Feb. 7.—Wolf Kessler, a peddler, died from poison administered to him, it is said by the police, by a robber. Kessler's 30-year-old mother is dying from the effects of the same drug, which it is believed was chloral. Although Kessler and his mother lived in a dingy basement in Scannel street and the son's occupation was peddling brushes about the streets, the police say that they had valuable stolen jewelry concealed in the house. The robber went to the Kessler home and said that he was in search of a room. He invited the woman and her son to drink with him, and soon afterward they became unconscious. The son died in Gouverneur hospital.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, Feb. 7.—Emperor Wilhelm has allowed it to become known that he will probably send his son Prince Eitel Frederick to the United States next year to represent him at the opening of the Jamestown exposition, commemorating the third centenary of the first settlement of America by the English. The decision of the Emperor is believed to be due to the announcement that King Edward contemplates sending a number of the British royal family to the opening of the exposition.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—While the government circles maintain an outwardly hopeful attitude regarding the conference at Algiers, the indications are that much concern is felt about the outcome. Even the failure to reach an agreement on the police question is regarded as probable.

STATE NOTES

For the first time in the history of Racine a woman was on Tuesday tried on the charge of selling liquor to minors, the accused being Mrs. George McCarthy. She was convicted of selling to Rudat and another girl and was fined $50 and costs.

Warrants for a dozen Oneida Indians have been issued in Appleton charging them with cutting timber on lands that they sold last summer to Green Bay parties. It is said that the purchasers of the lands have lost hundreds of dollars this winter through the operations of the Indians.

A call for a conference has been issued by the prohibitionists of Marinette for Saturday evening, when it is proposed to put up a city ticket. The only person suggested for the head of the republican ticket so far is Mayor Warren J. Davis, and the democrats are taking no active interest apparently.

The resignation of William Armstrong as city clerk of Racine, which was expected to be filed soon, will not be offered. Mr. Armstrong had been offered a good position with a large Minneapolis, Minn., concern, but decided to hold the office of city clerk until his term was out at least, nearly two years distant.

If the inheritance tax law is finally declared unconstitutional there will be two estates in Marinette county that will have to be refunded the tax they have paid. The estates of George T. Cook and William Diamond each paid about $500 tax some time ago to comply with the law. The tax on the Merryman estate has not been paid pending the result of the supreme court decision.

Louis Galland of Rosendale, Ray Lewis of Appleton, and John Mahne of Almond have been selected by the sophomore class of Lawrence university for the annual sophomore debate with Beloit to take place in the latter city on March 17. The question is, "Resolved, That intercollegiate football as played at the present time is detrimental to college students." Lawrence has the affirmative.

NETHERLANDS MAY BECOME REPUBLIC; HEIRS UNPOPULAR

Fifth Wedding Anniversary of Queen
Wilhelmina Today, and No Successor to Throne Has Been Born
—Grand Duke a German.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
The Hague, Feb. 7.—Five years ago today Queen Wilhelmina went to the altar a blushing bride, full of happiness and hopes for the future. All the kingdom shared in the joy of the occasion. Today, this bright winsome charm of the young queen has faded, and there lingers over her brow the unmistakable expression of a disappointed woman. Her subjects, too, are disappointed, for Queen Wilhelmina remains without an heir to the throne. A strange story has been circulated to the effect that according to the Dutch Constitution if the Queen is childless five years after her marriage parliament is empowered to dissolve the union, and that there is a clause in the wedding contract permitting this. As a matter of fact there is not the slightest foundation for such a report. For some time the government has been busy revising the constitution, especially Articles 10 to 20, which refer to the succession. The nearest in the line of succession is the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar. After him comes a princess of Reuss and then a princess of Wied. There is a marked antipathy throughout Holland to all these possible successors, as all are German and it is believed their succession to the throne would mean in effect the placing of the kingdom under the dominance of the German emperor. It is likely, therefore, that no heir will be sought, but that another peaceful revolution will be carried out and the government made a republic. The prevailing sentiment was voiced by the late Dr. Kuypers, the prime minister, when he said that Holland would resort to arms rather than sink to German rule.

Congress Hears the Last Day of the Discussion This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—The President today nominated General Fred D. Grant to be major general; Colonels William E. Birkhimer, Palmer G. Wood and Henry A. Reed to be brigadier generals. When the house met today the railroad rate bill was immediately taken up, and the last day of a general debate began. The program included speeches by Bourke Cockran of New York, Mann of Illinois, Williams of Mississippi and Hepburn of Iowa.

In the senate today Senator Patterson made a lengthy speech in defense of his position in regard to the democratic caucus being binding to a resolution.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

The Ohio house has passed the Wertz bill abolishing prison contract labor in Ohio.

Frank Bernat of Minneapolis is under arrest pending an inquest on the death of Mrs. Bernat, who, it is alleged, died as the result of the man's violence.

Train dispatchers of Iowa meet next Sunday at Des Moines to form a new national railroad organization separate and apart from the Train Dispatchers' association. The object of organization is to secure better salaries.

The Kentucky general assembly yesterday honored the memory of W. M. Goebel by exercises at noon in the house chamber. Speeches in eulogy were made. The occasion was the sixth anniversary of the governor's death.

E. A. Handy, chief engineer and assistant general manager of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway, will succeed W. H. Marshall as general manager of the company.

Jacob A. Rile is reported ill at his home in Richmond Hill, L. I., with an affection of the heart. His illness, while not necessarily serious, is sufficiently severe to cause him to cancel his lecture engagements for the next three months.

JEWELERS LOSE TO SWINDLERS

Bogus Certificates Of Deposit Play An Important Part In A Bank Case.

WERE NO TROUBLE TO NEGOTIATE

Clever Swindlers Found Little Difficulty In Disposing Of Them To The Gullible Public Quickly.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Following the arrest in Boston of Foster Hooper, vice president of the Hanover bank of that city, another sensation was sprung Tuesday when William Leary of this city was taken into custody here for connection with an alleged issue of $30,000 worth of bogus certificates of deposit on the Hanover institution. A scandal in high finance, it is said, may follow an investigation which the police have started.

Bogus certificates of deposit are said to have been disposed of in large numbers and the police scent a conspiracy to defraud, which in boldness may stand unequalled.

The particular charge against Leary is the larceny of $75 worth of diamonds from a Manhattan diamond dealer, who told the police that Leary paid him for the gems with a $1,000 certificate of deposit on the Hanover bank of Boston. This draft, the dealer charged, was returned to him by the bank as worthless.

The prisoner is said to have made a confession to the police that he had issued thirty of these bogus certificates, having a face value of $1,000 each. Leary was formerly a Wall street broker.

Leary Professes His Innocence.
In the Tombs prison Leary declared to newspaper men that he was an innocent victim of the promoters of the alleged swindle. He said he was merely employed to dispose of the certificates of deposit on the Hanover bank, which he supposed to be genuine. He sold them to jewelers, most of whom he paid for jewelry.

Postoffice Inspector Cortelyou, who was engaged in the investigation of the case of the Imperial Trustees company, has nearly a dozen complaints of fraud by means of bogus certificates of deposit similar to those used by Leary.

Oath Of Chastity, Sacrifice And Vengeance Are Explained To The Senators.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—Hearings in the case of Senator Smoot were resumed today before the committee of election. Prof. Walter M. Wolfe, a former teacher of geology at the Brigham Young college at Logan, Utah, testified that he had been a Mormon until January 1st last, when his connection was severed through his failure to comply with demands for tithes. Mr. Wolfe said he had been there at the Endowment house on twelve occasions and had taken obligations of chastity, sacrifice and vengeance each time. The oath of vengeance was: "You and each of you do covenant and pray God to avenge the blood of the Prophet on this nation." Prof. Wolfe said in southern Utah and New Mexico polygamy is talked of with much freedom and that polygamous cohabitation has increased very materially since Utah was admitted as a state.

Wolfe said he believed the seed of treason was sown in the oath of vengeance.

PRINCE ARTHUR IS A DIPLOMAT
Young Englishman Due to Arrive in Vancouver in March.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 7.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, who is due to arrive at Vancouver March 28 is on his way home from Japan, is already a diplomat of considerable repute, though he has only just passed his twenty-third birthday. It was he who entertained and made such an impression on the Shah of Persia when King Edward was recovering from the effects of the operation which postponed the coronation. He represented King Edward in Rome at the baptism of the Prince of Piedmont, and was received in audience by the Pope. So also he was the royal representative at the opening of the great Berlin cathedral and at the wedding of the German Crown Prince. He is said to be a great favorite at the German court and is credited with being one of the very few persons whose opinions have any real weight with Emperor William.

President Roosevelt will give a dinner Friday evening next to Chairman Cortelyou and the members of the republican national executive committee.

FIRE POLICE HELD ANNUAL INSPECTION

At East Side Engine House Last Evening—Geo. D. Simpson is the New Captain.

Annual inspection of the Janesville Fire Police last evening disclosed the fact that the uniforms are becoming too small of girth for many of the members. There was no disposition to ascribe the blame to the regalia, itself, and it finally had to rest on the overflowing year of happiness, health, and prosperity. The session was called to order at the East Side engine house at 7:30 p. m. by Captain Sheldon. Reports showed that no extra expense had been incurred during the year that had just closed and that no assessment had been necessary. During the twelve months the members had responded to 22 fires, 14 false alarms, and 8 chimney fires. Of the 22 fires, 13 were put out with the chemical apparatus. The following officers and committees were chosen for the ensuing year:

President—Geo. D. Simpson.
First Lieut.—S. B. Heddies.
Sec. Lieut.—Wm. Farmer.
Secretary—E. B. Heimstreet.
Treasurer—S. C. Burnham.
Uniform—R. M. Bostwick, W. P. Sayles and L. M. Wortendyke.
Fire Line—Edwin Carpenter, William Farmer and W. P. Sayles.
Wagon—Fred Sheldon, Dr. Chas. Sutherland, and S. B. Heddies.

BADGER TOBACCO IS MUCH SOUGHT FOR United Cigar Company Has Secured Nearly Six Thousand Acres in This State.

Present indications are that in the contest for tobacco in Wisconsin this last year the United Cigar company worsted the American concern, by picking up considerable more acreage at much cheaper prices than their rivals. Owing to the uncertainty in the last few years of the Wisconsin crop, the American had no riders in the field, and consequently when the shortage in the crop elsewhere appeared, was forced to buy what it could at much advanced prices. It is said that the United Cigar company bought its 6,000 acres at under 10 cents, while the American paid over 10 cents for all holdings and in some cases 15 and 16 cents. The 1904 crop is now entirely disposed of and all of the 1905 contracted for. Local warehouse operators say that they can use a girl to a hundred and fifty more girls than they now have, in order to properly handle the present crop.

STOMACH ON THE BRAIN.

What if a Man Gain the Whole World, and Lose His Appetite?

The man with a well-behaved stomach never thinks about it. He eats what he likes and likes what he eats. He knows he'll enjoy it, because he knows he has a stomach that will easily digest it. All things look good to him, he will sit close to the table, and with a merry twinkle in his eye and a world-pa expression, he will "start" on the delicious meal before him.

But the man with the bad, brash, gurgly stomach is the man who is always thinking about it. He can seldom eat what he most likes, and seldom likes what he eats. His stomach worries him before meals, after meals and between meals. It is on his brain. It robs him of his cheer and interferes with his daily work. Around him is a dark spirit which presses itself forward in his thoughts crying: "I am agony, I am disgust, I am nausea, I am sickness, I am worry, I am convulsed in quick lurches and pappy food, and nourished by gurgly meals. I rob brains of their force and bodies of their life. I steal away nerve and vim. I bring heart disease and apoplexy. I make the world a pit of weariness and darkness. I am woe, I am death. I am dyspepsia. But yet, I bring also hope, light and future health, because by my gloomy presence I give you warning and a chance to escape me."

This is a bad dream, but it is the daily dream of the dyspeptic. If it were not for the white we couldn't tell the black. If it were not for the dyspepsia, we couldn't know the joy, the happiness of a well-ordered digestion. All the world looks bright to a man of good health, and good health is impossible without a good, hardy stomach. And any sick or weak stomach can be made a good, strong one by just taking something which will direct your food for you, instead of letting your tired stomach do it. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most effective little tablets in the world for this very thing. If you feel bloated after eating, or you have nausea, aversion to food, brash, irritation, sour stomach, heartburn or dyspepsia, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will stop it because one grain of an ingredient of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Your stomach is overworked. Let it take a rest. You're not yourself when you have a bad stomach. These tablets will do the work that the stomach has to do and make you feel bright, think clearly and give you ambition and power to concentrate your attention on your work. You'll feel good. You should always have a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on your dining table. They will make you get all the good possible out of every thing you eat, and you'll enjoy it.

melody of Victor Herbert. It would be extravagant praise to say that their best was very good. Grace Hazard, within certain well-defined limitations, had a pleasing voice, and presence and was quite acceptable as "Contrary Mary." Budd Ross succeeded to a certain degree as "Roderigo," the sentimental ruffian. The march of the Toy Soldiers and the song "Rock-a-Bye Baby" were fairly well done. The costumes had seen better days. A good-sized audience witnessed the performance.

Labor Notes

For some time past the workmen in the bookbinding and paperbox making establishments in Saxony have been working to secure higher wages.

President Ryan of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron workers decided, at the request of the New York District Council of Housemiths and Bridgemen's Unions, to call a national strike against the iron league. It will affect 10,000 structural iron workers and indirectly throw more than 200,000 workers out of employment.

Chicago waitresses opened a union hospital in their rooms at 133 Dearborn street, where it is proposed to furnish first aid treatment to members of the organization suffering from injuries received while at work. The recent decision handed down by the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court, declaring that the law which prohibits the insertion in a contract between an employer and an employee of a clause forbidding the latter to join a trade union is unconstitutional, was based upon the broad assumption that such laws are in the nature of "class legislation."

BELOIT MERGER IS NOW ALL COMPLETE

Janesville Capital is Interested in the Million Dollar Utility Plant.

The merger of the Beloit water and electric light companies, in which Janesville capital is interested, has been perfected, and the stockholders met and elected officers as follows: President, Joseph Hendley, Beloit; vice-president, W. H. Wheeler, Beloit; secretary and treasurer, C. H. Woolley, Chicago; directors, Joseph Hendley, T. C. Hendley, P. S. Briggs, A. L. Rich, C. H. Woolley and W. H. Wheeler. It is said that the office of secretary and treasurer will be filled in a few weeks by Thomas C. Hendley of Beloit. Mr. Woolley keeping the place only so long as required to complete business already on hand. The capital stock of the company is $800,000. Large sums will be paid out to extend the systems this summer. Business men seem to be glad of the merger as it brings outside capital into the city and will permit of needed extensions to the utilities involved.

CITY COUNCILS TO TAKE A BACK SEAT

Wisconsin Supreme Court Makes an Important Decision Relative to Railroads.

The state supreme court has made an important decision regarding the right of railroads to enter a city without securing a franchise from the common council that may seriously affect Janesville interests. A Madison dispatch says as follows: It has been found that railroads do not need a franchise to use city streets, according to a decision of the state supreme court in the case of the Milwaukee Southern road in its application to condemn lands needed in coming into Milwaukee. The decision holds that the legislative enactment giving railroads power to cross streets, or build along or upon highways supersedes the city's power to regulate and control location of railroad tracks. It is held that any railroad may enter the city and appropriate streets.

Meeting National Butter Makers' Association.

The occasion of the meeting of the National Butter Makers' Association, Chicago, Feb. 9th to 25th, is to be accompanied with an interesting dairy show at the big Coliseum. The show will include exhibits of dairy machinery and dairy products of every description.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE HAS BEGUN ITS WORK

Management and Expenditures Are Being Investigated by Legislative Body.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—University of Wisconsin management and expenditures are being investigated by a special committee of the legislature, provided at the special session in December as the result of charges more or less direct, that the institution was $300,000 in arrears financially and that a large part of the million dollars a year allowed by the state for the support of the university was being improvidently spent. The committee has organized by the election of Senator George Wylie as chairman and Assemblyman Duncan McGregor as secretary. After making a general examination of affairs for the purpose of agreeing upon a general plan, the committee will hold open sessions, sitting much as a court or as the New York legislative life insurance investigating committee, calling and examining witnesses and getting at the facts with the assistance of an able attorney as inquisitor. President C. R. Van Hise manifests readiness to be investigated, having invited to the university the whole committee and asking that the president's office be used as the place of holding the sessions.

MANY CONVENTIONS AT STATE BUILDING

Multi-Convention Hall is Made of the State Capital This Present Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—The capitol building of Wisconsin has been transformed into a multi-convention hall for the farmers and stock raisers of the state. There are twelve conventions in session this week in the capitol, and several others are meeting at the agricultural college of the university. The city is overrun with farmers of substantial means, and inquiring minds. Among the conventions are those of the State Board of Agriculture, Wisconsin Beekeepers' association, State Livestock Breeders' association, Wisconsin Horticultural society, Wisconsin Sheep Breeders' association, Wisconsin Red Pole Cattlemen of Wisconsin, Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment association, Society of Veterinary Graduates, Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance association, and other allied associations. At the college of agriculture the annual Housekeepers' conference is in session, comprising a practical cooking and household economics course of two weeks for farmers' wives, while a similarly timed course in practical agriculture is in progress for mature farmers. Some of the farmers studying agriculture in this course are 50 years old. The short course alumni association and the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, the most learned convention of all, are also now in session.

AN ABLE MAN DIES AT THE UNIVERSITY

Professor Frankenburg Passes Away Was Beloved by His Many Students.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—The death of Professor David Bower Frankenburg, head of the department of rhetoric and oratory at the University of Wisconsin, which occurred late Tuesday afternoon, has cast deep gloom over the university community. He held his professorship since 1878 and in those years endeared himself to nearly every graduate of the institution. His work in training debate teams and oratorical contestants brought him into close intimacy with the most able students and to all he was beloved. He was born in western Pennsylvania 69 years ago, came west at the age of ten, worked his way to education and prominence and is mourned more sincerely than any man who has died in this community for a generation.

No Other Magazine Like It. The Burr McIntosh Monthly enjoys the distinction of being the only magazine of the kind in the world and it is well deserving of the title given it by its many admirers. "The most beautiful magazine in the world."

The February number is one of the most beautiful issues of this publication ever sent out. It not only contains unusually fine photographic reproductions but the letter-press is really unusual, even in this age of fine printing. Musical people will be interested in the portraits of the Grand Opera singers Caruso, Sambrich, Nordina and Homer; the stage celebrities Madame Modjeska, Blanche Walsh, Alice Neilson, Maude Adams, Henrietta Crossman and the unusually fine Mark Twain. The number also contains reproductions of the exquisite decorations by the eminent artist Edwin H. Blashfield, used in the State Capitol of Iowa and Minnesota and in the Court House at Baltimore. A large number of fine photographic reproductions of scenes and incidents throughout the world complete this attractive number. It is to be found on all news stands.

Wisconsin University Faculty Resigns from Permanently "Caring" Football.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—Action of the University of Wisconsin faculty last night in refraining from independently abolishing the game of football, preferring to further pursue the way of reform by united agreement on the "big nine" universities of the middle west, is precipitating a continuous celebration among students for it is believed that the worst case of the anti-football forces in the faculty still declares that he will favor abolition of the game at the next conference. Failing in that, he will continue his campaign for independent action by Wisconsin. However, the test appears to have been met by the friends of the game in the Wisconsin body of professors, in refusing to declare that the game should be banished here without reference to what the conference might do. The action by the senate of the University of Michigan, in favor of maintaining its professional non-faculty coach and also providing that no rule adopted by the conference should be retroactive at that institution, is hailed here with delight and approval by all friends of the game. The action by Michigan was as independent and determined in favor of the game as the action proposed and fought for by Professors Turner, Slichter and Munro was independent and radical against the game, and it is expected that the majority of the badger faculty having shown a mild friendliness for the much persecuted student pastime, and a friend of the gridiron having been found in the leading educational and athletic institution of the big pipe across Lake Michigan, that from now on the game will have better sailing.

EXPECTED ACTIVITY FAILED TO ARRIVE

Wool Market Remains Quiet—Attention Attracted to Low Prices on Foreign Products.

Evansville, Feb. 6.—The activity in wool that was expected has, not come as yet. Many manufacturers claim to be well supplied. Australia and South America, which now compete so strongly with our fleeces, are reported to be two per cent lighter than last year and quite attractive. Manufacturers took on quite a fine of China filling and Russian wool—the past week. Shearing is now in progress in Arizona. The situation of the foreign markets with reference to finer grade crossbreds and its influence on our domestic fleeces of similar kind is just now attracting the attention of such local dealers who are holding like wool, and it does not hold out any promise of a profit at present prices obtained abroad. The report that certain high grades of foreign yarns can be imported at a less price than our spinners can produce them from domestic wool, is by no means pleasing to contemplate, and local wool merchants are not just enthusiastic at the outlook, for there is much wool being handled with little or no profit to the owners. The Boston and Philadelphia prices have ruled very firm on all half-blood and fine fleeces which are in light supply, but there have been comparatively free offerings of three-fourth and quarter blood wools at farther concessions, in anticipation of buying the new clips at prices anywhere from 4 to 60 per pound lower than the 1905 wools. Western dealers have been urging sales of remaining stocks of old fleeces at prices that would not have been considered a few weeks ago. Some lots running largely to quarter-blood have been offered as low as 25c, limited, and better wools have been available at 30 to 35c, but these figures have not been attractive to dealers who have been unable to figure a fair margin of profit in the turn-over to consumers, after deducting the costs of grading.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, February 7, 1866.—A Nice Thing.—We would call attention to the notice in another column of Mr. Rice's flour sifter. It is a nice little machine for every house wife who must sift flour or meal. With Mr. Rice's sifter it can be done in the neatest manner at the rate of five pennies in half a minute without shaking or rubbing with hand, and with no flour dust.

We have seen it and indeed it did most admirably. Mr. Rice the inventor will be in this city at the Myers House for a few days, and offers a rare chance for some enterprising man in Illinois, Wisconsin or Minnesota. There is money in this invention for any one that will take hold of it.

BLOOD POISON THE BLACK FLAG

The black flag is an emblem of horror and dread. When it is hoisted by an army, the order has gone forth that "no quarter" will be given, everything must be destroyed. Helpless women and children, as well as opposing soldiers, meet the same fate, and a trail of desolation, suffering and death is left behind. Contagious Blood Poison is the black flag of the great army of disease. This vile disorder is known as the blackest and most hideous of all human afflictions, overthrowing its victims and crushing out the life. It is no respecter of persons, no matter how pure the blood may be or how innocently the disease is contracted; when this awful virus enters the circulation the hideous, hateful and humiliating symptoms begin to appear, and the sufferer feels that his very presence is polluting and contaminating. Usually the first sign of the disease is a little sore or ulcer, but as the blood becomes more deeply poisoned, the severer symptoms are manifested, the mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the groins swell, a red rash breaks out on the body, the hair and eyebrows come out, and often the body is covered with copper-colored spots, pustular eruptions and sores. In its worst stages the disease affects the nerves, attacks the bones and sometimes causes tumors to form on the brain, producing insanity and death. Not only those who contract the poison suffer, but unless the virus is driven from the blood the awful taint is handed down to offspring, and they are its innocent victims. Blood Poison is indeed a "black flag." Mercury and Potash, so often used, never can cure the trouble. These minerals merely drive the symptoms away for awhile and shut the disease up in the system, and when they are left off it returns worse than before. This treatment not only fails to cure blood poison but eats out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produces chronic dyspepsia, loosens the teeth and frequently causes mercurial rheumatism to add to the patient's suffering. S. S. S., the great vegetable medicine, is the conqueror of this vile disease. It goes down to the very root of the trouble and cures by cleansing the blood of every particle of the poison. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up anything but clears the entire circulation of the virus and puts the system in good healthy condition. It cures safely as well as certainly, because there is not a particle of mineral in it. We offer a reward of $1,000.00 for proof that S. S. S. is not purely vegetable. When the blood is purified and strengthened with this great remedy the symptoms all pass away and no sign of the disease is ever seen again, nor is there left the least trace to be handed down to posterity. Special book with instructions for self-treatment and any medical advice desired will be sent without charge to all who write.

Several years ago I had blood poison in my feet, and it was a awful condition. Great sores would break out and nothing I put on them would do any good. My hair and eyebrows fell out and I was a sight. My mouth was so sore I had to live on milk and water. I took Mercury for a long time and instead of getting better I continued to grow worse and my arms and hands became solid sores. My legs were drawn so I could not walk and I felt that my time was short here if I did not get some relief. I began to use your S. S. S. and it helped me from the start. After taking it awhile the sores all healed, my rheumatism was cured and to-day I am a strong, well man. It got all the mercury out of my system and it cured me sound and well. Sometimes ten more customers in a store would turn the scales from a losing day to a profitable one—and, as a rule, a few inches more of advertising space would secure the ten additional customers.

While the grand jury could not find anything specific against the Chicago police, it should have warned them not to do it again.

This has not been a good winter for the small boy and the snow shovel or the bob sled he received for Christmas.

PAY THE OFFICERS

The common council has made a wise move in placing the aldermen and mayor upon a salary basis. The sums decided upon are not such a drain upon the city treasury that it can not be easily stood and the benefit it will come accrue is great. It is a good move in the right direction.

PARTIZAN IN EXTREME.

Mr. Cooper has demonstrated time and time again that he is partizan in the extreme. He has cast his fortunes with the administration crowd and means to sink or be saved by this aggregation. If he continues to act as he has in the past Mr. Ingersoll at Beloit can prepare to move out of his office very shortly. Political gratitude is nothing to Mr. Cooper compared to paying grudges for the future. Time will tell whether the administration will be able to save Mr. Cooper at the primaries or whether the people will choose some other man to fill his place. For twelve years Mr. Cooper has held his office at the gift of the voters of the first congressional district and indications are that the time is coming when Mr. Cooper will be quietly invited to retire to private life again.

IMPORTATIONS

The imports into the United States have practically doubled in value in the last seven years. The total value of imports, as shown by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, was in the calendar year 1895, 1,179 million dollars, and in the calendar 1898, seven years earlier, was but 635 millions. The figures of 1898 included, of course, merchandise from Porto Rico and Hawaii, which are now customs districts of the United States, and a comparison of the merchandise brought into the United States in 1905 with that of 1895 would properly include merchandise from these two island territories, since they were so included in the earlier year; and if the value of the merchandise brought from those islands in 1905 be added to the Bureau of Statistics' statement of imports from foreign countries the grand total would be 1,234 millions, or practically twice as great in value as that of 1895.

This remarkable increase in imports during the seven-year period is distributed through all classes and practically all articles. Food stuffs, now an increase of 84 million dollars, a gain of 45 per cent; manufactures, an increase of 81 million dollars, a gain of 77 per cent; luxuries, an increase of 76 million dollars, a gain of 90 per cent; and manufacturers' materials, an increase of 303 million dollars, a gain of 117 per cent. These figures do not include for 1905 the merchandise brought from Hawaii and Porto Rico. If these were included the increase in food stuffs would be about 134 million dollars and the percentage of gain about 70. Speaking in general terms, it may be said that the value of merchandise brought into the country in 1905, including that from the islands now under the American flag but foreign territory in 1898, shows an increase of 70 per cent in food stuffs, 77 per cent in manufactures, 90 per cent in luxuries, and 117 per cent in manufacturers' materials. The term luxuries, however, as used by the classification established for the Bureau of Statistics many years ago is now misleading, since that group is chiefly made up of manufactures of the higher grades, such as laces and edgings, plushes and velvets and wines and spirits, manufactures of tobacco, and jewelry and other manufactures of gold and silver, etc.

Considering single articles and comparing conditions in 1905 with 1895, it may be said that raw silk shows an increase in imports of about 100 per cent, the figure for 1895 being 20 1/2 million dollars and for 1905, 54 1/2 millions. Imports of tin show an increase of practically 200 per cent, having been a little less than 9 million dollars in 1895 and 26 millions in 1905. Hides and skins show an increase of about 80 per cent in the value of their importations, the total in 1895 having been, in round terms, 40 million dollars, and in 1905 over 73 millions. Crude rubber imports in 1895 were 26 million dollars, and in 1905, 49 1/2 millions an increase of practically 90 per cent. Imports of manufactured fibers in 1895 were, in round terms, 17 million dollars in value, and in 1905, 41 millions, an increase of about 140 per cent. Wool imports in 1895 were 11 1/2 million dollars in value, and in 1905, nearly 47 millions.

Unmanufactured tobacco, for use in manufacturing, amounted in 1895 to 3 1/2 million dollars in value and in 1905, 18 1/2 millions. Raw cotton, chiefly Egyptian, showed in 1895 a total importation of 4 1/2 million dollars and in 1905 10 1/2 millions. Imports of copper, now largely brought into the United States for smelting or refining and with the purpose of extracting the precious metals which it contains in the form in which it is brought, have greatly increased, having been in 1895 only 4 million dollars in value, while in 1905 they amounted to 23 millions, of which 5 1/2 millions represented the value of ore and the remainder pigs, bars, and ingots.

Turning from manufacturers' materials to other classes it may be said that sugar shows by far the largest increase under the group of articles classed as "food-stuffs." The value of sugar imports in 1895 was, in round terms, 78 million dollars and in 1905 (including the 50 million dollars worth brought from Porto Rico and Hawaii) was 151 millions, or practically double in value that of 1895, the quantity in 1895 being a little less than 3 1/2 billion pounds and in 1905 nearly 5 billion pounds. Coffee imports in 1895 were valued at 5 1/2 million dollars and in 1905, 75 million dollars.

In manufactured articles, whether classed under the general head of manufactures or as luxuries, the most striking increase occurs in the high-grade manufactures of silk and cotton. Laces, edgings, plushes, and velvets, dress goods and other articles of that class show marked gains over 1895. The value of cotton laces, edgings, embroideries, etc., imported in 1895 was 13 million dollars, and in 1905, 28 1/2 millions. The value of cotton manufactures of all kinds imported in 1895 was 29 million dollars and in 1905, 54 1/2 millions. The value of silk manufactures of all kinds imported in 1895 was 25 million dollars and in 1905, 33 1/2 millions. Articles which may be properly and absolutely classed as luxuries, such as cigars, wines, diamonds, etc., show a very large increase. Imports of cigars and cigarettes which in 1895 were 1 1/2 million dollars in value, were in 1905 about 4 millions, and in addition to this 2 1/2 million dollars' worth were received from Porto Rico last year. Wines, spirits, and malt liquors, which in 1895 showed a total importation of 10 million dollars, were in 1905 about 18 million dollars, and diamonds, cut and uncut, which in 1895 were 8 1/2 million dollars in value, were in 1905, 30 1/2 millions.

All of the above figures, it is proper to add, relate to the years ending December 31, and in no case to fiscal years.

PRESS COMMENT.

It's Woefully Needed.
 Chicago News: Winter has ordered a new supply of stiffening for its back bone.

Survival A Mere Accident.
 Chicago Tribune: At one time the Indians, thought seriously of deporting the entire Caucasian race to the other world, but they abandoned the idea.

That Was Probably It.
 Exchange: Perhaps the Countess Castellane did not choose to support the count in the style to which he was accustomed to think himself entitled.

Meant No Duds Ideal.
 Milwaukee Sentinel: Richard Mansfield advises university boys to select some great man as a model, and it should not be inferred that he meant Beau Brummel.

And We Certainly Feel Well.
 Chicago Inter-Ocean: There must be something wrong somewhere. Either all these stories we hear about impure food are not true, or we are not half as well as we feel.

Foxy Shonts.
 St. Louis Globe Democrat: When he decided to surrender one of his two big salaries, Mr. Shonts again manifested his prudence and foresight by surrendering the smaller one.

Oshkosh Grasshopper Relief Fund.
 Neenah Times: A subscription paper, it is said, is being circulated in Oshkosh to buy flannels for those grasshoppers that a paper alleged were "hopping over the snow banks."

Absent Treatment.
 Kaukauna Times: The pictures of Miss Alice Roosevelt's wedding dress by artists who have never been within 200 miles of it must have been made by the correspondence school method.

No Hope For Nick.
 Exchange: Mr. Longworth is mentioned for governor of Ohio, which somehow brings to mind the old caution that if a man begins as lieutenant governor in the domestic circles he can never be promoted.

Fond du Lac's Solemn Thanks.
 Fond du Lac Reporter: The state and the government is abolishing hazing in the national schools. It won't be so very long before young men will go to college to study instead of to play pranks and football.

She's On The Silver Dollar.
 Plainfield Sun: Nearly every man carries in his pocket the picture of an unmarried girl. Her name is Anna Wilkes Williams, and her likeness adorns the silver dollar. Their wives seldom show jealousy, although always waiting to get it in their possession and get rid of it.

Stork Bookings in La Crosse.
 Superior Telegram: Last summer the people of La Crosse were somewhat dissatisfied when it was announced Superior had 7,000 more people than La Crosse. However, La Crosse has not yet given up the fight. The La Crosse Chronicle remarks: "The stork is said to have booked a large number of orders in La Crosse for the spring trade."

Harmony in Large Chunks.
 Modford Star-News: Surely, Republican harmony in Wisconsin can soon be seen in large chunks. The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin has been publishing columns of harmony prophecies by various party men. And most significant of all is the statement by State Senator Hagemeister of Green Bay, one of La Follette's bitterest opponents in times past, that the railroads are now making money hand over fist since the new rate law went into force. They have been able to cut out the rebates, he says, and as a consequence, the profits are large. Judging from that, harmony will be due before spring. The railways will certainly stop fighting a law that is such a great benefit to them.

New Incorporations.
 The following Rock county concerns have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state: The J. P. Cullen Co., Janesville, contractors; capital stock, $20,000; incorporators, J. P. Cullen, George P. Cullen and James H. Cullen. The Baker Manufacturing company, Evansville, filed an amendment increasing the capital stock from $400,000 to $600,000. T. G. Borden Co., Milton, Rock county, tobacco dealers, capital stock, $50,000; incorporators, T. G. Borden of Milton and L. B. Carle and N. L. Carle of Janesville.

ORIENTAL LODGE OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS TO GIVE COMPLIMENTARY BALL.

Date Sometime Before Lent Will Be Selected if Possible—May Import Orchestra.

Oriental Lodge No. 22 of the Knights of Pythias decided at the regular meeting this week to give a complimentary dancing party sometime before Lent if possible. A committee consisting of W. O. Newhouse, Thomas Welch, Ward Stevens, Frank Snyder, and Jesse Earle was appointed to make the arrangements. Inasmuch as the local orchestras appear to be engaged for all the available evenings before the penitential season it is probable that Van Velsor's orchestra of Delavan or some other equally good organization of eight or ten pieces will be secured for the occasion. The affair will probably be given in Assembly hall on the 21st or 27th.

LOCAL LAONICS

Stallion Certificates. Under Chapter 116 of the laws of 1905 all owners of stallions for the public service are required to have them enrolled by the department of horse breeding of the state college of agriculture, take an oath to the soundness and freedom from disease of the animals, and file a copy of the certificate secured with the register of deeds of the county in which any such stallion is kept. W. Morgan of Beloit today filed certificates of enrollment of the grey Percheron "Chambellan," foaled in 1896, and the black trotting stallion "Aragon K," foaled in 1893.

Old Locomotives Retard Traffic. A German student finds one of the causes of the inability of the Russian railroads to handle their traffic is the antiquity of their locomotives. The number of these seems in tolerable proportion to the traffic for out of 14,326 locomotives no less than 6,919 are from twenty-four to forty-six years old.

JANESVILLE INTERURBAN IS SOLD BY JOHN FARSON

ROCKFORD INTERURBAN CO. BUYS PROPERTY YESTERDAY.

A GIGANTIC MERGER MADE

Deal Was Closed in Chicago—Goes Into Effect on March 1—Line May Go to Madison.

When John Farson, purchaser of the Rockford, Beloit and Janesville Interurban railroad, paid Janesville a visit and talked of extending the line to Madison, the dream of an interurban connection with the Capital City seemed near realization. Mr. Farson appeared to be much interested in Janesville and its future and Janesville reciprocated and was interested in Farson. Now Mr. Farson has disposed of his interest in the Rockford interurban and the project for connection with Madison appears as far off as ever. Three companies have talked of this proposed road to Madison. Several surveys have been made, preliminary and two franchises granted. The interest of the people has been excited that the possibility was to be a probability, only to be disappointed. Now the best we have to bank on is the report that the new purchaser of the Rockford connection, the Rockford and Interurban company, may build in the spring.

The New Deal.
The "Rockford Register-Gazette" in speaking of the new deal says: "Negotiations have just been concluded for one of the most important street railway mergers that has ever taken place in this section of the country, which will result in the consolidation of all the local and interurban lines in and out of Rockford. The Rockford and Interurban Railway company has just closed a deal whereby it will become the owner of the Rockford, Beloit and Janesville electric line on March 1, on which date it will pass under the management of the local corporation."

Have Been Pending.
"The negotiations have been pending for some time, but the terms of purchase have just been agreed on and the directors of the Rockford and Interurban will meet soon to ratify the same officially. The Rockford and Interurban company will take over the million dollars of stock and $650,000 of bonds of the Beloit and Janesville company. The property was bought by the Rockford corporation of John Farson and the Cleveland capitalists who owned it at a figure which they believe is right and which will make it a good investment. The management of the Rockford and Interurban also believe that the adding of the Beloit line to its system will enable it to add at least 2 1/2 per cent to its present earnings. The Beloit line, which was constructed at a cost of $900,000, is one of the very best built interurban roads in the country. It has thirty-four miles of main track to Janesville, operates twelve cars and its equipment is the finest throughout."

About March 1.
"The Rockford and Interurban will take up the operation of the Beloit line about March 1 and improve the service if it possible to do so. At the start it will be operated as it has been in the past, but eventually the Beloit offices of the company will probably be closed and all of its affairs will be conducted from the main office of the company in Rockford."

A Million Dollars.
"The Rockford and Interurban company is capitalized at a million dollars and has a bonded debt of $900,000. The addition of the Beloit line will give the company 103 miles of main track in city and suburban lines. The directors of the company are: R. N. Baylis, G. G. Olmstead and John Farson, Chicago; W. F. Woodruff, Rockford; and B. B. Eldredge, Beloit. The company feels confident that in conjunction with its other lines the Beloit branch can be operated for less money than it has been in the past. The consolidated company will probably take up the matter of extending the Janesville line to Madison at an early date and will make other improvements in the system to enlarge and better the service wherever possible."

LOCAL LAONICS

Picked up Unconscious: Sim Burdick was found lying in a dangerous condition on the corner of River and Milwaukee streets about midnight, having been stricken with heart trouble while on route home. Officer Brown took the young man to his home, where he will be confined for a day or two. No serious results are expected.

For Grace George: The seat sale for "The Marriage of William Ashe," to be presented by Grace George and her company at the Myers theatre Friday evening, will open at the box office tomorrow morning.

From Creamery to Mines: William Brinkman, proprietor of the creamery at Alton for 24 years, has sold the plant to Frank Corryell for $4,000 and will make his home in Platteville, where he has become interested in a mining venture.

Notice: All Rebekahs that wish to attend the district convention at Milton on Thursday can leave at 10:30 a. m. and return at 6:30 or 12 p. m.; 30 cents round trip.

Monthly Meeting: The Women's Missionary societies of the Congregational church will hold their monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church parlors. A short program will be given by the members of the society and at 4 o'clock Mrs. Laughlin, the wife of the pastor of the Presbyterian church, will talk to the ladies, giving her personal experiences in Japan. This will be a most interesting address, and all are cordially invited. Picnic tea will be served.

Make Report: The special investigating committee sent to look into the proposed clock factory have returned and made their report to those interested at noon. The result of their trip will make interesting reading when made public.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary A. Decker.
Emerald Grove, Feb. 5.—After a brief illness of only eight days duration Mrs. Mary A. Decker passed away last Saturday afternoon at her home in Emerald Grove. All of her surviving children were present at her bedside when the end came. Her husband, Peter Decker, died Jan. 9, 1905.

Mary A. Chapin was born in Connecticut Jan. 23, 1823. When eight years old she moved to the state of New York. She united with the Baptist church at Litchfield at fifteen years of age.

In the year 1844 she was married to John Brockway; of this union five children were born, three boys and two girls of whom three are living. Mrs. Hattie Esler of St. Johns, Mich.; Mrs. Sarah Burton of Ames, Iowa, and Mr. Reed Brockway of Janesville. They moved to Wisconsin in 1857 and Mr. Brockway died in 1860.

Mrs. Brockway was married to Peter Decker Nov. 8, 1860 and to them one daughter was born, Mrs. Alice Comoford, who preceded her mother to the world beyond. The funeral services were held at the Congregational church Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. W. E. Davidson. The song service was rendered by Mrs. F. Wetmore, Mrs. J. A. McArthur, D. E. Jones and J. A. McArthur. The pall bearers were J. A. Jones, T. Jones, P. Kemp, F. Wetmore, A. Davis and M. Kniffans.

Mrs. Anna M. Noggle.
Accompanied by P. W. Puffer of Monroe, Mrs. N. S. Brumley of Canajoharie, N. Y., and Mrs. Kittie Brainard of Chicago, the remains of the late Mrs. Anna Noggle were brought here over the St. Paul road from Monroe this morning at ten twenty-five o'clock and taken to the chapel in Oak Hill cemetery. There funeral services were held at eleven o'clock and Rev. H. C. Boissier was the officiating clergyman. The pall bearers were J. L. Ford, R. M. Bostwick, Jr., George McKee, Victor P. Richardson, Al Kemmitt and E. A. Shumway. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Babe Follows Mother.
The four-year-old babe of Mr. and the late Mrs. Albert Eiler of 102 Cherry street, followed the mother to the world beyond last evening. The mother and the infant will be buried together, the funeral services having been arranged for two o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home. Rev. Denison will officiate and interment will be in Oak Hill.

KICKERS' KOLUM

My Dear Gazette: I note in last night's Gazette you publish an item from the Madison Journal; that "during the last six months 32,000 pensioners of the civil war died, and the rate must continue to increase for several years." Dear Gazette, do you believe such "stuff" as that? 32,000 for six months means 164,012 each year. At that rate five years would see the last of the old veterans in his grave. It would also seem that the high rate given would decrease with the coming years, as the ranks would be less in number for death to get its victims. Don't try to scare the old "vet" by publishing such stuff. Yours all the time, M. D. EARNST.

Gazette: Let's have a discussion among the business men. What do you think of this: Build a neat fire station on East Milwaukee street halfway up the hill for No. 2 hose company; take the house on North Main street for the fire patrol, and police patrol, also making it headquarters for the police department. It would make an ideal police station and accommodate both parties. See if we can get the opinion of some of our property holders and business men on this question.

ENTERTAINED AT PROGRESSIVE CINCH PARTY LAST EVENING

At the home of her sister, Mrs. John Flagler, on Mineral Point avenue, last evening, Miss Elsie Taylor was hostess of a company of twelve young ladies. Progressive cinch was the amusement of the occasion and the first prize fell to Miss Floss Appleby. The consolation was awarded Miss Frances Schlegel. Light refreshments were served and the affair proved most charming.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAM GOES TO JEFFERSON

Will This Friday Evening Meet Five They Have Already Defeated.

With the scalps of Beloit Academy, Burlington high school and even of Jefferson high school, hanging in their belt, the local high school basketball five will go to Jefferson Friday to meet the high school team there. Thus far the season has been one of succession of victories and the supporters of the Janesville boys do not believe the tune will be changed by the contest this week.

RUIN THREATENS TOBACCO BELT

IF THE PHILIPPINE TARIFF BILL PASSES THE SENATE.

LEAF MEN GO TO MADISON

Tomorrow Prepared to Carry the Battle on to Washington—A. L. Fisher Discusses Situation.

With the menace of the Philippines urging them to swift and united action, it is expected that from 1,000 to 1,500 men interested in the production of Wisconsin leaf will gather in the assembly chamber of the capitol building at Madison tomorrow in response to the call for the fifth annual convention of the Tobacco Growers' and Dealers' Association. Already the Philippine tariff bill lowering the duty on tobacco from these islands from 25 per cent to 15 per cent, and providing for absolute free trade in this staple beginning with Jan. 1, 1936, has passed the House of Representatives. The President is its advocate and if the Senate takes favorable action complete or partial ruin of their business enterprises is believed to threaten several thousand Wisconsin men.

What Free Trade Means.
"Something must be done quickly or we shall see the industry in Wisconsin so badly crippled as to be almost completely abandoned and most of the warehouses closed," said A. L. Fisher this morning. "When I talked with Congressman Cooper he said: 'Don't get excited, Fisher; those islands are not growing anything to compete with Wisconsin leaf.' That is true now, perhaps, but the moment the tariff is taken off, the cultivation on an extensive scale will begin. If those islands can produce a wrapper leaf of a higher grade than that of Mexico or Porto Rico they can certainly grow a binder that will cut into the Wisconsin trade. Land costs from $2 to $5 an acre and labor can be secured for 12 1/2 cents a day. At a conservative estimate there are 300,000 acres available enough to supply the world with cheap leaf. There are in the United States at present 120,000 acres devoted to the growing of cigar-leaf. Wisconsin formerly had 40,000, but last year only 27,000. At the present time there is a scarcity of cigar-leaf and as a result the growers are getting very good prices and the dealers are buying all they can get. There is almost a famine in old leaf. Prices were never higher and prospects for the coming years, nevertheless, under this bill passes the 1907 and 1908 Wisconsin crops will go begging."

Send Men to Washington.
"There will be some strong resolutions passed at that meeting tomorrow. And we want to send some representatives to Washington—Heddes or Carle from this town and some of the dealers or growers from the other cities. It means a great deal to both the tobacco men and the beet-sugar men and the meeting tomorrow will be the largest ever held in Wisconsin. William Brill, state manager of the United Cigar Manufacturers, will be heard on the subject and several others will speak. The bill comes up for consideration at Washington next week, I understand."

NINETY AT BANQUET BOARD LAST NIGHT

Women's Auxiliary of Y. M. C. A. Hostess in Auditorium of Association Building.

Ninety people enjoyed the banquet and program held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of that institution. The guests were the members of the Board of Education and their wives, State President John M. Whitehead, General Secretary C. C. Calkins of the Beloit association and his wife, the seven officers of the Beloit Auxiliary and the husbands of the local auxiliary members. Following the repeat, which was served at six o'clock, a program of music and toasts was given, Mrs. W. G. Palmer, president of the Auxiliary, acting as toast-mistress. The numbers were: Vocal duet, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Taylor; Toast to the Ladies' Auxiliary—"The Diagnosis of the Case"; Dr. B. E. Loomis; Cello solo and remarks, F. F. Lewis; Vocal solo, Mrs. S. B. Lewis; Address, J. M. Whitehead; Vocal solo, double number.

Origin and Subsequent History of the Auxiliary.
Remarks—Mrs. Van Aiken of Beloit, former President of the Janesville Auxiliary; Mrs. F. S. Eldred, former president; Mrs. A. A. Jackson, former president; Mrs. Kelsey, president of the Beloit Auxiliary; Mr. C. C. Calkins, General Secretary of Beloit Association.
"All the gentlemen speakers emphasized the fact that the labors of the Auxiliary have been invaluable to the Y. M. C. A. and that without them much of the success of the institution would never have been attained. One pleasant feature of the gathering was that with one exception in each instance every former president of the Board of Directors and every former president of the Auxiliary were present. Judge B. F. Davidson, the first head of the Board, was unable to attend because of pressing business, and Mrs. Lee Beers, the initial head of the Auxiliary, was forced by ill health to remain away. The arrangements for the affair were in charge of Mesdames W. G. Palmer and J. S. Taylor and so successful was the entire program that the members of the auxiliary are now planning to make the banquet an annual event."

FINE WAS LEVIED; LATER SUSPENDED

In Case of Amanda Nelson Who Accompanied Edward Barnard to Ottumwa, Ia.

After receiving his prison sentence in municipal court yesterday, J. Edward Barnard made a statement to the effect that the young Beloit woman, Amanda Nelson, who accompanied him to Ottumwa, Ia., did not learn that he was a married man until she reached that city. When she was brought into Justice Booth's court in the Line City this morning the unfortunate young woman changed her plea to "guilty" and was fined $25 and costs, but the sentence was suspended during good behavior.

IRA S. MOYER IS OUT ON PAROLE

WILL BEGIN LIFE ANEW AT COLORADO SPRINGS

WITH JANESVILLE WIFE

After Months of Unceasing Effort Cecelia Goodman Moyer Persuaded Gov. Cummins to Release Him.

Ira S. Moyer, former student of the local school of telegraphy and porter at the Hotel Myers, who was convicted of bigamy last summer and sentenced to a term of two years in the Iowa state prison at Ft. Madison, was paroled yesterday by Governor Cummins. The parole was secured at the behest of his Janesville wife, Mrs. Cecelia Goodman Moyer, who has been in Iowa working and pleading for his release ever since the incarceration began. By this time they have doubtless departed for Colorado Springs, where they are to begin their interrupted married life over again and by common agreement forget the past.

Wedding at Union Center.
Moyer is a young man of prepossessing appearance and about 27 years of age. Mrs. Cecelia Goodman Moyer, prior to her marriage to Moyer at Union Center, Juneau county, on August 2, 1904, was employed as a domestic at the home of Judge Fifield, and was regarded as an attractive and capable young woman. Their wedded happiness was of short duration. Moyer demanded the possession of the sum of $1,000 which the young woman's mother was holding in trust for her and when she denied him, provoked a quarrel and left her.

Made Another Venture.
Some time before his marriage to the Janesville young woman—as far back as 1902—he appears to have conducted through a matrimonial bureau a correspondence with a Miss Leah McCarthy of Keokuk, Iowa. He went west, met her, and they were married on Christmas Day, 1904. Subsequently when the truth attempted to sell forty acres of land belonging to the 19-year-old Iowa bride against the wishes of relatives, they made an investigation and discovered that he had a wife living in Janesville.

Reconciled to the Loss.
That was the beginning of the action for bigamy. When the trial took place at Keokuk last spring, the Janesville bride went thither with the Rev. Father Procha, who had married them, to prove that Moyer had wedded her in Wisconsin. In the face of the evidence the youth abandoned his brazen attempt to disclaim the Janesville wife and amended his plea to "guilty." The Keokuk overmuch over losing her erstwhile spouse and at the time he entered prison it was reported that she was "reconciled" and already had another husband in view.

A KITCHEN SHOWER GIVEN IN HONOR OF MISS CLARK

Misses Turnbull Hostesses at a Pre-Nuptial Affair Last Evening.

In response to invitations issued by the Misses Eva and Stella Turnbull about eighteen of their friends gathered at their home last evening on Mineral Point avenue for a kitchen shower was given in honor of Miss Jessie Clark. Many useful articles were given the bride-to-be. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. After dainty refreshments were served the guests departed, wishing Miss Clark long life and happiness.

Private Secretary Loeb, President's Second Self

Personality of a Man Who Began Life as a Stenographer.

Self Made and a Breadwinner at Twelve—Guards His Chief More Closely Than Secret Service Men—Kindly in Handling Office Seekers—His Very "No" Makes Friends—How He Disposes of Presidential Gifts.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, officially, is two men. He has two pairs of hands, feet, ears and eyes and a second voice. The president's alter ego is William Loeb, Jr., secretary to the president.

Since the president entered the White House the only occasions on which he has been just his one self include the periods of his brief annual vacations and a single day last November, when Loeb was ill for the first and only time. Otherwise, night and day, in Washington or in western wilds, the president's other self has been with him. One Christmas Loeb set out to visit his parents in Albany, N. Y. As he boarded the train he was handed a message calling him to the White House. He abandoned his trip forthwith, with his usual sunny smile.

"White House Annex."

When first he brought his charming bride to Washington—she was Katherine Dorr of Buffalo—he lived at the Hotel Richmond. The hotel, in consequence, became known as the "White House Annex." One evening Loeb started from the "annex" with his bride for the theater. Just then came a telephone summons from the White House. Two nights later he again to tell the president about Loeb attends to himself. The superintendent of a great New York publishing house came to see the executive about a hitch in the postal service that seriously affected the publishing house. Inside of two minutes Loeb saw that a misunderstanding existed in the post office department. "It won't be necessary to see the president," he said. And forthwith he rang up one of the assistant postmasters general, and in ten telephonic words the matter was adjusted and the superintendent made happy. Thus Loeb disposes of most of the White House visitors without disturbing the executive.

The President's Taskmaster.

Loeb is the personification of the business system of the White House. He is the president's taskmaster. All mail passes through his hands; and he permits only letters of the first importance to reach the president. The mail is stupendous. After inauguration day in 1905 fully 1,500 letters a day reached Loeb's desk. The White House mail at any time is so enormous that the president cannot read one letter in ten and sometimes not one in a hundred. Loeb himself can read only a fraction of the mail. Often there are started for the theater, for the play was one his wife especially wished to see. At the door of the playhouse a secret service man whispered in his ear. Loeb escorted his wife back to the "annex" and then hastened to the White House. A third time, on the last night of the play, he started for the theater. A third time the president intervened. Loeb never saw that "show."

That's what it means to be a president's indispensable second self. That's what it means for a secretary to have the complete confidence of the chief executive. That Loeb knows the president and his characteristics better than any other man in the White House or in public life is certain, for daily and hourly Loeb is in effect Roosevelt.

His Very "No" Made Friends.

"Stonewall," Loeb is called. He stands between the president and the busybodies, the office seekers and the cranks. He guards the president more closely than do the secret service men. He has all the tact essential for his position. With him I went for a visit to a friend at the Willard hotel, in Washington. As we passed through the corridors Loeb was buttonholed by men who wanted his ear—that is, the president's ear. It was interesting then to watch Loeb. One office seeker after another he turned down, denying each an appointment with the president, but denying in such a way that each supplicant felt that a favor had been rendered him. Loeb brought the office hungry crowd in a spirit so kindly that his very "no" made friends of them.

"The way to have a friend is to be a friend," he said. And he practices this always, for whenever he saves the president's time, as he did in the hotel corridor that night, he is being a friend to the president. Only one man in that crowd had legitimate business with Mr. Roosevelt, and to that one the secretary said: "Come tomorrow at 12:10 tell the old man"—old man being a president eight years Loeb's senior in age.

Loeb has instinctive knowledge of matters which the president wants brought to his personal attention. That which he knows will be waste of time letters which Loeb would like the president to see, but even such letters are swamped in the mass of demands for office and for pensions, notes of warning and advice and requests for charity. In a single fortnight Loeb has opened letters containing requests for pecuniary aid to an amount exceeding that of the president's salary for a year.

The labor at the White House is immense, and a great part of that labor falls upon Loeb. For the president there is ceaseless worry and harassing anxiety. It is the duty of the president's second self to minimize that worry and anxiety. To accomplish this Loeb shoulders all details. He is the president's memory and his timekeeper, his files, his records and his iron shop. No papers go to the president's desk except the papers Loeb himself puts there. Then always the president's traveling engagements must be considered. All papers relating to matters to be taken up on a trip are kept in a folder, so that when the president leaves the White House Loeb has all the matters needing the executive's attention on that journey all ready in compact form in his grip.

Loeb's Call Box.

The president summons Loeb to his private office by means of an electric device in a box close to Loeb's desk. When the president pushes a button a short, sharp, snappy sound is produced in the box. One day an old gentleman came to see Mr. Roosevelt. Loeb said he would arrange the matter and left the room. The old gentleman sat close to Loeb's call box. Suddenly there was a short, sharp, snappy sound, and the visitor jumped up affrighted.

"That's only a call from the president for Mr. Loeb," explained Assistant Secretary Barnes.

"But, goodness me!" exclaimed the old man. "Does the president always shoot off a revolver when he wants Mr. Loeb?"

In addition to the huge mail, there come to the White House huge stacks of express packages, these being gifts of every conceivable character, from live guinea pigs to suspenders. "At last I feel I can afford two pairs of suspenders," said the president to Loeb when he first saw the suspenders. Yet the suspenders were returned to the donor along with other gifts galore.

The president regrets that he cannot accept the deer head you so kindly sent him, as he is obliged to adhere to his rule to accept no presents. The deer head, therefore, is returned to you today by express. Such in substance is the stereotyped letter signed by Loeb, a dozen or more of similar purport leaving the White House in the mail every working day.

Despite the president's known aversion to receiving presents the express companies continue to dump tons of gifts on Loeb's hands. So many of the gifts are sent anonymously, thereby making it impossible to return them, that Loeb has set apart a room in the new executive offices known as the "museum." There Loeb stores the gifts that await claimants. There are all sorts of firearms and other weapons, watches, chains, scorpions and other jewelry, sleeping bags, antlers, fur robes, bear-skins, sets of brasses, oil paintings, and no end of patent medicines and photographs of the president in costly frames. Barrels of fruit and other perishable foods are thrown away if Loeb does not know the sender's name. Even live animals—a Shetland pony, a Scotch collie, an Arabian stallion—reach the White House. For humane reasons Loeb orders these anonymous living gifts fed until they can be transferred to the national zoo.

Only a "Park Rider."

Besides all this, Loeb has been obliged to decline at least twenty offers of automobiles from different manufacturers, who sought thus to advertise their machines. Loeb also receives innumerable offers of presents for himself personally. Like the president he declines all, excepting the least costly from his intimate friends. And as for automobiles, Loeb no more than his chief will have anything to do with them. He owns one of the best Bull-dog horses that were sold in Washington and rides whenever he can. At a jack rabbit hunt in Texas last spring Loeb was in at the death every time. The range riders, surprised at his riding, complimented him, but Loeb modestly maintained that he was only a "park rider."

Like his official predecessor, Loeb is a self-made man. He is not college bred. He's a plain public school boy. At twelve years of age he became a breadwinner. While learning shorthand he acted as secretary for Bishop Doane and thus first became self supporting. As a law reporter he became actively interested in practical politics, serving as secretary of the Republican county committee and its vice president of the "Unconditional Republican" club, all this in his native Albany. When Roosevelt became governor of New York Loeb was appointed one of the official stenographers for the executive. His ability to do things without specific instructions on every point and his familiarity with public men and affairs attracted Roosevelt's notice, and Loeb became the governor's private secretary. As Roosevelt rose, then, so did Loeb. When Roosevelt went to the White House Loeb went with him and in time succeeded Cortis as secretary. Thus the man who began life as a stenographer became a president's second self.

GILSON WILLEYS.

NO LONGER WEBFOOTERS.

Oregonians Hereafter to Be Called Beavers.

Hereafter it will be but form, if not sedition, for any member of the Oregon Development league or the Oregon Press association to use the term "Webfoot State," as applied to Oregon, or to refer to native Oregonians by their long endured nickname of "Webfooters," says a special dispatch from Portland, Ore., to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. At the closing session of their joint convention, held in the parlors of the Commercial club, at Portland, the two organizations went on record against the use of all nicknames which reflect on Oregon's climate or cast a slur on the character of her citizens, including not only the ones mentioned, but "mosshack," "cow counties," etc., and at the session of the press association in the afternoon the action taken at the joint meeting was clinched by the adoption of a resolution that the beaver, Oregon's original emblem, be adopted and that the nickname of "Beavers," appropriate and historically correct, be applied to the industrious citizens of the commonwealth by those who must use some sobriquet.

The action in joint convention was taken on motion of Tom Richardson, secretary of the Development league, who said that serious harm had been done by the indiscriminate use of the terms "Webfoot" and "Webfooters," that thousands of dollars had been diverted from investment in Oregon by the application of a nickname intended to convey the idea that Oregon's climate was perpetually damp and disagreeable, whereas, in fact, the annual rainfall of the state was less than that of many other states of the Union.

Message in Fish's Stomach.

While cleaning a snail the other day Fred Ivany of Plainfield, N. J., found in its stomach a small bottle securely corked, says a dispatch to the New York Tribune. Inside was the following message on a piece of writing paper: "Whoever gets this note will confer a favor by replying to the undersigned, Harry Durant, Marquette, Prince Edward Island, Canada, Jan. 4, 1906." The bottle was almost as large as the snail's mouth. In nineteen days it had traveled a thousand miles.

A foreclosure judgment has been entered in the Racine circuit court against the Brown-Corliss Engine company of Corliss for $10,000 in favor of Nellie A. Goodrich of Milwaukee.

AN-ODD REQUEST.

Southern Left $10,000 to Educate Northerners in Manners.

A. W. Carlson, one of the oldest newspaper men of Southwest Missouri, who recently died at Joplin, Mo., bequeathed $10,000 for the dissemination of Mark Twain's "How to Be a Gentleman" among the Young Men's Christian associations of the north, says a Joplin (Mo.) dispatch to the New York Times. He said he wished which was opened the other afternoon, that in the south the young men did not need the good advice contained in Mark Twain's work.

Mr. Carlson came to Joplin from Buffalo, Mo., in 1872. He left an estate valued at about $30,000, the bulk of which will go to his sister, Mrs. Sarah Hunt of New York city.

Richardson and His Bill.

Representative Richardson of Alabama was recently trying to get through a bill for a dam somewhere down in his state, and Seneca Payne, the floor leader of the Republicans, did not just understand whether there was a concealed Ethiopian or not, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Times. He was asking both some questions as to the necessity of a special act, and Richardson did not like it. Finally the Alabama man broke out, "It's one of those cases that the general dam law does not cover."

"Oh, I see," said Payne. "So we have to have a special dam law."

The Largest Field of Corn in the United States.

If not in the world, has recently been harvested on the Adams farm in Sag county near Odessa, Ia., says an Iowa City correspondent of the St. Paul Dispatch. One hundred and five men working with 200 horses, and thirty-seven corn cutters have shucked corn to the estimated amount of 300,000 bushels. Mr. Adams, the owner of the farm, spends the most of his time in Chicago operating his large farm by export foremen.

To Algebras.

Algebras! Algebras! When you are about to wire us That you've settled matters straight And that all are satisfied, That each nation's honest pride Smoothed is and laid to rest—wait.

Can you not, O Algebras, Knowing that we are desirous Of a little season's Pax, Gently hint it to the Kaiser That he'd not put his part much wiser If he'd above his battles?

Britain, too, is bent to us— Well you know it, Algebras— With heroes in the field Of our own that never set. Of a fleet that neverover Lowered was by woman's sail.

As for France, she's bent to us With her legends, Algebras. Still we need a little rest. Tell her all her glories will More than easily lift the bill, That the arts of peace are best.

Breaths it gently, Algebras! Sus Minerva's old empire (as) That we quarrel with no nation And, though not now desirous For a fleet, O Algebras, We can easily lick empires.

When desirous, Algebras, New York Times.

Burglar Was Too Fat.

Guests in a well-known hotel in Paris heard pitiful cries for help coming from the cellar at 1 o'clock in the morning, and the waiters and manager rushed downstairs. The door was locked, but they battered it down, and discovered a very fat burglar held fast in the ventilator, through which he had tried to escape. The brickwork had to be knocked down before he could be extricated.

Virtue Coming In.

There is not much scandal going the rounds. Recklessness has been found not to pay and, happily, women—ever the greater sufferers—think the game is not worth the candle. The word respectable is not yet in favor, but it has ceased to be synonymous with dullness.

Bunk Overcomes Seasickness.

The self-induced bunk for the prevention of seasickness, which has been experimented on for some time on one of the Dover-Calais boats, has been found so successful that it is proposed to install it on all the steamers of the service.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED.

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so slow that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation."

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around, once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. THE MAN ON THE BOX

By HAROLD MacGRATH
Author of "The Gray Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1904, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

As she disappeared Warburton drew in an exceedingly long breath and released it slowly. Heavens, what an ordeal! He drew the back of his hand across his forehead and found it moist. Not a word about the flut: he must broach it and thank her. Ah, to ride with her every morning, to adjust her stirrup, to obey every command to which she might give voice, to feel her small, cool, repulsive palm as she mounted! Heaven could hold nothing greater than this. And how easily a woman may be imposed upon! Dejectedly, Mr. Robert was violently in love.

When she returned there was a sun-bonnet on her head, and she had pinned the poppies on her breast. (Why? I couldn't tell you, unless when all is said and done, he is king or valet, a man is always a man.) And it is possible he is blessed with good looks, a little more than a man. You will understand that in this instance I am trying to view things through a woman's eyes. With a nod she bade him precede her and they went out toward the stables. She noted the flat back, the square shoulders, the easy, graceful swing of the legs.

"Have you been a soldier?" she asked suddenly.

He wheeled. His astonishment could not be disguised quickly enough to escape her vigilant eyes. Once more he had recourse to the truth.

"Yes, Madam. It was as a trooper that I learned horsemanship."

"What regiment?"

"I prefer not to say,"—quietly.

"I do not like mysteries,"—briefly.

"Madam, you have only to dismiss me, to permit me to thank you for paying my fine and to reimburse you at the earliest opportunity."

She closed her lips tightly. No one but herself knew what had been on the verge of passing across them.

"Let us proceed to the stables," was all she said. "If you prove yourself a capable horseman, that is all I desire."

The stable-boy slid back the door and the two entered. Warburton glanced quickly about; all was neatness. There was light and ventilation, too, and the box-stalls were roomy. The girl stopped before a handsome bay mare which whinnied when it saw her. She laid her cheek against the animal's nose and talked that soft jargon so embarrassing to man and so intelligible to babies and pet animals. Lucky horse! he thought! but his face expressed nothing.

"This is Jane, my own horse, and there are few living things I love so well. Remember this, she is a thoroughbred, a first class hunter, and I have done more than five feet on her at home."

She moved on, Warburton following soberly and thoughtfully. There was a good deal to think of just now. The move he saw of this girl, the loss he understood her purpose in hiring him. She couldn't possibly know anything about him, who or what he was. With his beard gone he defied her to recognize in him the man who traveled across the Atlantic with her. A high-bred woman, such as she was, would scarcely harbor any kind of feelings toward a man who had acted as he was acting. If any man had kissed Nancy the way he had kissed her, he would have broken every bone in his body or hived some one to do it. And she had paid his fine at the police station and had hired him on probation! Truly he was in the woods and there wasn't a sign of blazed trail. (It will be seen that my hero hadn't had much experience with women. She knew nothing of him whatever. She was simply curious and brave enough to attempt to have this curiosity gratified. Of course, I do not venture to say that, had he been coarse in appearance, she would have had anything to do with him.)

"This is Dick, my father's horse,"—nodding toward a sorrel, large and well set up. "He will be your mount. The animal in the next stall is Pirate."

Pirate was the handsomest black gelding Warburton had ever laid eyes on.

"What a beauty!" he exclaimed enthusiastically, forgetting that, grown as he was, he was utterly without enthusiasm. He reached out his hand to pat the black nose, when a warning cry restrained him. Pirate's ears lay flat.

"Take care! He is a bad-tempered animal. No one rides him and we keep him only to exhibit at the shows. Only half a dozen have ridden him with any success. He won't take a curb in his mouth and he always runs away. It takes a very strong man to hold him in. I really don't believe that he's vicious, only terribly mischievous, like a bullying boy."

"I should like to ride him."

The girl looked at her new groom in a manner which expressed frank astonishment. Was he in earnest, or was it mere bravado? An idea came to her, a mischievous idea.

"If you can sit on Pirate's back for ten minutes there will not be any question of probation. I promise to engage you on the spot, recommendation or no recommendation." Would he back down?

"Where are the saddles, Madam?" he asked calmly, though his blood moved faster.

"On the pegs behind you,"—becoming interested. "Do you really intend to ride him?"

"I should like to ride him."

"I warn you that the risk you are running is great."

"I am not afraid of Pirate, Madam."

In a tone which implied that he was not afraid of any horse living. The spirit of antagonism rose up in him, that spirit of antagonism of the human against the animal, that eternal ambition of the one to master the other. And besides, I'm not sure that James didn't want to show off before the girl—another very human trait in mankind. For my part, I wouldn't give yesterday's rose for a man who wouldn't show off once in a while, when his best girl is around and looking on.

"On your head be it, then,"—a sudden nervousness seizing her. Yet she was as eager to witness the encounter as he was to court it. "William!" she called. The stable-boy entered, setting aside his broom. "This is James, the new groom. Help him to saddle Pirate."

"Saddle Pirate, Miss Annesley," cried the boy, his mouth open and his eyes wide.

"You see," said the girl to Warburton.

"Take down that saddle with the hooded stirrups," said Warburton. Briefly, he would ride Pirate now, even if Pirate had been sired in Beelzebub's stables. He carefully inspected the saddle, the stirrup-leads and the girth. "Very good, indeed. Buckles on saddles are always a hidden menace and a constant danger. Now, bring out Pirate, William."

William brought out the horse, who snorted when he saw the saddle on the floor and the curb on Warburton's arm.

"There hasn't been anybody on his back for a year, sir, not since last winter. He's likely to give you trouble," said the boy. "You can't put that curb on him, sir; he won't stand for it a moment. Miss Annesley, hadn't you better step outside?" He may start to kicking. That heavy English snaffle is the best thing I know of. Try that, sir. And don't let him get his head down, or he'll do you. Whoa!" as Pirate suddenly took it into his head to leave the barn without any one's permission.

The girl sprang lightly into one of the empty stalls and waited. She was greatly excited, and the color in her cheeks was not borrowed from the poppies. She saw the new groom take Pirate by the forelock, and, quicker than words can tell, Mr. Pirate was angrily clamping the gold bit. He reared. Warburton caught him by the nose and the neck. Pirate came down, trembling with rage.

"Here boy, catch him here," cried Warburton. William knew his business, and he grasped the bridle close under Pirate's jaws. "That's it. Now hold him."

Warburton picked up the saddle and threw it over Pirate's glossy back. Pirate waltzed from side to side and shook his head wickedly. But the man that was to mount him knew all these signs. Swiftly he gathered up the end of the belly-band strap and ran it through the iron ring. In and out he threaded it, drawing it tighter and tighter. He leaped into the saddle and adjusted the stirrups, then dismounted.

"I'll take him now, William," said James smiling.

"All right, sir," said William, glad enough to be relieved of all further responsibility.

James led Pirate into the small court and waited for Miss Annesley, who appeared in the doorway presently.

"James, I regret that I urged you to ride him. You will be hurt," she said. Her worry was plainly visible on her face.

James smiled his pleasantest and touched his hat.

"Very well, then. I have warned you. If he bolts, head him for a tree. That's the only way to stop him."

James shortened the bridle-rein to the required length, took a firm grip on Pirate's mane and vaulted into the saddle. Pirate stood perfectly still. He shook his head. James talked to him and patted his sleek neck, and touched him gently with his heel. Then things livened up a bit. Pirate waltzed, reared and plunged and started to do the pas-seul on the flower-beds. Then he immediately changed his mind. He decided to re-enter the stables.

"Don't let him get his head down!" yelled William, nimble jumping over a bed of poppies and taking his position beside his mistress.

"The gates, William! The gates!" cried the girl, excitedly. "Only one is open. He will not be able to get through."

William scampered down the driveway and swung back the iron barrier. No one soon! Like a black shadow, Pirate flashed by, his rider's new derby rolling in the dust.

The girl stood in the doorway, her hands pressed against her heart. She was as white as the clouds that sailed overhead.

WOULD PROTECT THE NAVAL CADETS

President Seeks Authority to Act in Cases of Hazing.

PUNISHMENT IS TOO SEVERE

Executive Points Out That Dismissal Must Follow Trial by Court-Martial, Even Though No Particular Harm Is Done to Victim.

Washington, Feb. 7.—President Roosevelt is opposed to the present law requiring the trial by court-martial of all midshipmen at the naval academy charged with hazing. He has written the chairman of the naval committee of the house and senate explaining that his opposition is not due to any sympathy with hazing, but because he believes that the punishment should fit the offense.

Under the present law, a midshipman convicted by court-martial of hazing must be expelled, and the president has no power of review if the findings of the court-martial are approved by the superintendent of the academy.

In asking that the present law be amended, the president explains that he is a firm adherent to the principle of enforcing discipline, and would not permit any hazing to go unpunished.

Adequate Punishment.

In instances where the offense is merely a boyish prank, attended by no consequence of any moment to those hazed, the government should not lose the services of the midshipman, upon whose education several thousand dollars have been expended. He should be adequately punished, and be made to realize that hazing will not be tolerated.

On the other hand, the president considers expulsion too mild a punishment for midshipmen when hazing is a mere pretext for brutality and involves cruel and ignominious treatment. What the president asks is an amendment to the present law under which the authority to determine when a midshipman charged with hazing shall be tried by court-martial shall be lodged in some administrative officer or body, with power vested to punish each offense as it is proved, not merely, but firmly, the punishment to be regulated by the gravity of the misdoing.

Total May Be Forty-four.

Unless congress shall amend promptly the existing law against hazing, the secretary of the navy may be forced to dismiss thirty-three midshipmen from the naval academy within the next month. In addition to the eight who already have suffered this penalty and three whose cases are awaiting the action of the department, Secretary Bonaparte, after urging upon individual members of congress the necessity for immediate legislation, finally laid the whole matter before the president, and the letter to the congressional committees followed.

It is admitted at the navy department that if the present law is allowed to stand the service will suffer severely. The investigating board of officers appointed by the superintendent of the naval academy to obtain evidence against all midshipmen guilty of having already been brought to light, evidence resulting in the trial of fourteen midshipmen, of whom two have been acquitted, eight dismissed, one pardoned while under sentence of dismissal and another, Midshipman Minor Meriwether, Jr., whose case is now awaiting action by the department, has been found guilty and recommended for pardon. The papers in the cases of Midshipmen Jules James of Virginia and W. T. Boyd, Jr., of Illinois, are before the department for execution and sentence of dismissal.

Two More Are Dismissed.

Two more midshipmen of the third class were dismissed Tuesday. Secretary Bonaparte having signed the formal orders for Richard T. De Saussure of the first South Carolina district and George H. Melvin of the fifth Illinois district.

The investigation board has left with the superintendent of the academy, evidence against thirty-three other midshipmen, who probably will be ordered for court-martial. Included in the list are men whose records are otherwise above reproach, among them members of the first class who will graduate next week, and a number related to prominent members of congress.

The Japanese style of wrestling will be abolished from the naval academy, it Rear Admiral Sands is permitted to have his way. The testimony of Admiral Sands, before the house committee on naval affairs has just been made public, and shows that he thinks very little of the style of wrestling popularized by the President's attitude toward it.

MONEY THROWN AWAY.

Views of J. F. Wallace Not Wanted, Though They Were Paid for.

Washington, Feb. 7.—John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Isthmian canal commission, was paid more than $25,000 in salary, and officials charged with the work of supervision refused to even receive his opinions, and deductions resulting from more than a year's work on the Isthmus of Panama. This was the astonishing fact developed at the examination of Mr. Wallace before the senate committee on interoceanic canals. The year's work was analyzed by him and recommendations for the future were based on it, but never placed before Chief Engineer Stevens or Chairman Shonts to assist them in the future work of construction.

"Why did not your successors have the benefit of your investigations and experiments?" asked Senator Tamm.

"Because," replied Mr. Wallace, "the secretary of war told me he did not want it and had no use for me except on the isthmus as consulting engineer."

The cost of living on the isthmus, Mr. Wallace said, is not out of line with the cost in the United States. There is nothing abnormal about taking care of the men there. Mr. Wallace expressed the opinion that civil service regulations cannot be applied to canal work except in the matter of clerical employees. Feeding the men promises to become a serious problem, said Mr. Wallace, for the chief reason that their board bills cannot be deducted from their wages under existing government regulations, and boarding-house keepers will not accommodate them without this is done. Mr. Wallace said he favored the restoration of the ten-hour day. "The only way we can do this canal work," said Mr. Wallace, "is to put it in the hands of an absolute despot and then uphold his hands and keep the wolves off his back."

COAL ROAD PROBE.

Pennsylvania Line Is Said to Dictate Shipments Over "Feeders."

Washington, Feb. 7.—An investigation of the coal-carrying railroads to determine what interest or ownership they have in coal mines, to be conducted by the interstate commerce commission, is proposed by Representative Gillespie of Texas, the author of the resolution concerning the Pennsylvania railroad and its relation to other railroads. Mr. Gillespie in a speech Tuesday did not attempt to disguise his disgust with the response of the commission to the resolution, although it contained all the information which the commission had on the subject. He deplored conditions which have developed, and asserted that an investigation would show that the coal-carrying roads have allotted territories among themselves, removing all competition. He declared that the control which the Pennsylvania exercises over the Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and other roads, dictated the shipments of coal upon each line, and that these lines, particularly the Baltimore and Ohio, unfairly restricted the distribution of cars among the mines, making it always difficult and for long periods impossible for the operators of independent mines to get carloadship coal to the market. To disclose these conditions Mr. Gillespie proposes the investigation by the interstate commerce commission, which is to report:

1. Whether the roads carrying coal have any ownership or interest in the mines.

2. Whether the officers of these roads are interested personally in the mines.

3. Whether there is any contract between the mines and the roads amounting to a restraint of trade or creating a monopoly in bituminous coal.

4. If such above facts are found to exist, then the commission is required to report the details of the relationship and set forth the agreements and terms of monopoly or ownership interests.

5. The commission is to report as to the system of coal car distribution.

6. It is to suggest a remedy.

7. To report facts and conclusions it may deem pertinent, and

8. To make the investigation at its earliest opportunity.

Naturalization Bill.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The house committee on immigration and naturalization has practically agreed on the Howell naturalization bill, in a slightly amended form. The suggestions of the commission named by the president are embodied in the bill. No decision was reached as to whether a separate bureau of naturalization shall be established under the department of commerce and labor, or whether naturalization and immigration shall be combined under one bureau. The subcommittee will determine which plan shall be adopted. A residence of five years is required for naturalization, also ability to write either English or some other language and to speak and read English.

Politics in the Navy.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Two cases of members of the pay corps who have been accused of irregularities in their accounts and later found guilty by a court-martial have been pending before the navy department for the last eight months without a decision. It is admitted in certain quarters of the department that political influence is responsible for this delay in justice. The cases are those of Pay Inspector Jewett and the other that of Past Assistant Paymaster Deering. According to an authoritative statement, the Jewett case has progressed as far as the White House, where it appears to be lying dormant. The Deering case is still on Secretary Bonaparte's desk.

Senate Confirms Smith.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of James F. Smith of California to be governor general of the Philippines.

Dispensary Bill Is Passed.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 7.—The house of representatives today passed by twenty-three majority the Morgan bill to abolish the state dispensary. The bill already has passed the senate.
